Acme United Continues Expansion of Camillus, TigerSharp, Western, and Related Lines

Since 1876, Camillus Cutlery has been supplying the world with reliable, innovative and quality-made knives that have survived the true test of time.

The owner of Camillus and related brands since 2008, Acme United continues to expand their cutlery line with a combination of old favorites and brand new designs. The Camillus product assortment includes Fixed Blade, Folding and TigerSharp® replaceable blade system knives.

With the exception of TigerSharp, all Camillus knives are made of Carbonitride Titanium™ cutlery-grade steel (AUS-8 or VG-10 Japanese stainless steel) and include the Camillus Lifetime Warranty. Carbonitride Titanium is one of the hardest surface treatments – up to 10x harder than untreated steel – and the company's proprietary process (patent pending) creates a permanent molecular bond with the blade surface.

Handle materials vary and include eco-friendly Bamboo, Micarta, G10, Maple, Aluminum, Glass-filled Nylon and Carbon Fiber.

Products already brought back from the old Camillus line include the popular Cuda® one-hand opening knives, and the company says that Camillus Yello-Jaket® and Lev-R-Lok® knives are planned for the near future. Among the brand new Camillus designs are several sleek one hand opening knives, including an interesting rigging knife with marlinpike.

The Western® line of traditional Granpa® pocketknives includes some with jugged bone handles, and two Western fixed blade hunters have non-slip rubber handles. All current Western knives feature 440 stainless steel blades.

A limited edition OVB® hunting knife with curly maple handle has also been brought back into the lineup.

CAS Hanwei Expands Rock Creek Line

Sale Creek, Tennessee's CAS Hanwei has expanded its line of "Rock Creek" fixed-blade hunting knives to include seven new sambar stag models with full tapered tangs, as well as two new through-tang bowies.

The top-quality full-tang hunters feature forged blades in Hanwei's proprietary HWS-1K steel, with full tapered tangs. Edge hardness is 58-60HRC. The handle scales are genuine sambar stag and the stainless steel guards feature electroformed scroll engraving. Sheath construction is bark-tanned leather with stainless steel reinforcing at the wear points. The model pictured is the Comanche, with a 6-1/4" semi-drop point blade MSRP is $208.

The Rock Creek Apache (7-7/8" spear point) and Arapaho (8-1/8" clip point) Bowies feature forged blades of HWS-1K steel and genuine sambar stag handles with stainless steel guards and butt plates, the latter individually sculpted to match the stag texture. The through-tangs are very substantial, terminating in a short thread at the butt. Sheaths are crafted in bark-tanned leather with steel reinforcing and mil-spec snap fasteners. MSRP is $169.00 apiece.
