

New from CAS Hanwei...
Military Dadao

This sword replicates a Dadao used by the Chinese military during the Japanese invasion of China in the pre-WWII era and celebrates a Chinese victory at the battle of the Great Wall, in which the Dadao and the Katana were actually pitted against each other. The leather handle wrap is representative of the many different wrapping materials originally used by the poorly-equipped army - many of the handles were simply wrapped with strips of clothing fabric, knotted in place. A leather scabbard is included for safety, though the originals had none. The sword is ruggedly built to handle heavy-duty cutting.

Specifications:

Military Dadao
SH2447
MSRP: $165

Overall: 37"
Blade Length: 22 7/8"
Handle Length: 14 1/8"
Weight: 2 lb 7oz

High Resolution Images:

SH2447: Zip File

